In your search results page, along the left-hand side, there is a list of all of the subjects and authors that were found in all of the records your search returned.

The number in parenthesis counts how many of your results have that particular subject or author.

Clicking on a subject or author will refine your search terms by adding that specific information. The system will re-do the search with your new terms.

You can continue to refine your results as often as you need.

Or you can enter a completely new search into the search bar at the top of the screen.

Search results are sorted by relevance by default. This will place the books that most closely match your search terms at the top of the list.

You can choose to sort by title or by publication date, by clicking the “Sort by” button at the top of the results list.

You can page through your results by clicking on the “<< Prev” and “Next >>” links, or by choosing a page number to jump to.
